

Teaching for Social Justice AND Rigor

Addressing the Reality of Critical Pedagogy in the Classroom

With CSUDH Teacher Education Professor Jill Aguilar, Ph.D.

Wednesday, March 24, 2010, 5– 8 pm

6505 Wilshire Blvd
Los Angeles, CA 90048

Join us for an evening of discussion to investigate some of the issues presented by teaching for social justice in our schools:

- What assumptions do we bring to the classroom—about teaching, our students, and their success?
- How do we balance California standards with teaching for social justice?
- How do we define rigor?
- What indicators do we use for success in our classrooms?
- What does differentiated instruction really look like?
- What is negotiable? What isn't?

A light dinner will be served.

Admission is free for youTHink Teacher Network Members and $10 for non-members.

Please pay or join the Network at www.youthink.org/pay.html

Please RSVP to Melinda Mann Rivera at melinda@youthink.org or 323-761-8318 by Monday, March 15.
